

FREE Health Equity Training Event for PQCs
Saving Mothers of Color - Equity in Action

AUGUST 24, 2022 | 1:00pm – 5:00pm EST
Virtual Zoom Event

Registration Link

https://us06web.zoom.us/meeting/register/tZcpd-CgrzgoGdQzHYTJZ_vxzUWdlpsk7ICW

Understanding and Ameliorating Medical Mistrust (1pm)

1. Define medical mistrust and provide examples of how it contributes to health outcomes.
2. Describe the historical foundations of medical mistrust in communities of color.
3. Describe global and US disparities in maternal and reproductive health and how this intersects with health access, health disparities, and medical mistrust.
4. Describe the effects of medical mistrust on maternal and reproductive health in communities of color.
5. Describe strategies to ameliorate medical mistrust in maternal and reproductive health.

Institutional Strategies for Addressing and Implementing Health Equity (2pm)

1. Detail the factors contributing to health inequalities resulting in health inequities
2. Outline factors that are required for a health equity operationalization
3. Articulate the four interventions/efforts that can serve to reduce disparities
4. Review the Barriers to Health Factsheet
5. Review Health Equity Principles & Strategies for operationalizing HE

Barriers Impacting Access to Healthcare (3pm)

1. Identify and examine barriers to health insurance
2. Identify and examine barriers to quality healthcare
3. Identify and examine barriers to physicians and providers
4. Identify and examine barriers to non-biased care

Speakers

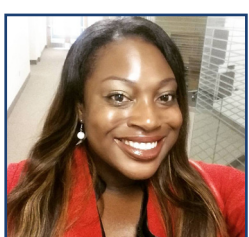

Dr. Fatu Forna

Dr. Forna is a Global Obstetrician and Gynecologist, Maternal Health Consultant, and Speaker who has been featured on CNN International for her work improving the health of women and children around the world. She received her medical degree from Duke University School of Medicine and completed her Obstetrics and Gynecology residency at Emory University School of Medicine. Dr. Forna has served as Director of Perinatal Safety and Quality and Chief of Women's Services for Kaiser Permanente in Georgia, as a Medical Epidemiologist at the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, and as Lead for Reproductive and Maternal Health for the World Health Organization in Sierra Leone. She is also a Fellow of the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists.

Dr. Earl Benjamin

Dr. Earl N Benjamin-Robinson DrHSC, CPH is a health equity expert and a board-certified public health practitioners (National Board of Public Health Examiners). He is faculty at Xavier University at Louisiana's Public Health Sciences Program, teaching graduate and undergraduate courses and has adjunct at Tulane University School of Public Health. Lastly, he served as an executive committee member of Louisiana's COVID Health Equity Taskforce and is on the National Committee for Quality Assurance —NCQA, Health Equity Advisory Committee.

Dr. Nickell Dixon

Dr. Nickell M. Dixon possess a DrPh in Community Health with a minor in Behavioral Health and Health Policy from the University of Texas. Her research is focused on women's reproductive and sexual health, with particular emphasis on certain reproductive issues in Black women, specifically the areas of uterine fibroids and infertility. She has more than a decade of experience working in diverse community settings that serve populations with low health literacy.